Tie Day by Collin

Today, The 5-8 classroom was gift a whole lot of ties from Mr. A. I guess that he rescued them from some strange place. I don't really know the backstory but the ties might have been rescued from a pre-garbage cleanup. I just walked into the classroom this morning to see that everyone was having fun and was excited about the immense amount of ties. Most of the people that took a tie wore it for a little bit and took it off. Chase was not one of these average people. He has been rocking this tie that he got and has turned it into a bandana!

Track Meets By Natasha

This week everyone had a track meet. The big kids had a track meet on Wednesday. Both of our boys teams took sixth overall. Both of the girls teams didn't score any points. It was a beautiful day for a track meet and everyone got to see their friends from other schools. Today there is a track meet for the little kids. They will go to Redeemer to participate in their track meet. I don't know how any of them did yet but I am sure they will do wonderfully.

Teacher Appreciation Week by Parker

This week was Teacher appreciation, which loaded the teachers with goodies all week in the workroom. The first day they just received all their sweets and goodies. Tuesday they were given cards by all the wonderful students. Wednesday through Friday was just more gushy stuff for teachers. I won't bore you with it. This was the big news of the week. Have a good weekend.

How do you tie a tie? by Kelly

Today, Friday morning we walked into the classroom to see an abundance of ties on Mr. Augustines desk. I look to see all different patterns and prints and he claims to have "rescued" the ties. My question is where did the ties come from? Mr. Augustine told us students we should take one home but they were all so big that they didn't fit on a lot of us. A student named Kristen Odekirk, my sister, wanted to learn how to wear a tie so everyone was trying to explain it to her. In the end she finally found out how to do it. Mr. Augustine also showed all of us how to tie a tie but not many people got it right away as you would imagine.

Limerick by Chase

People ran fast
The track meet was a blast
The shot putt toss
It did not make it across
It is now in the past
